

“We are social animals and we should care for the collective good. And because we are social animals, there’s also a lot of symbiosis between us. We have to contribute.”

BERNARD YEUNG,
dean of the National University of Singapore
Business School

